Has the Funk & Wagnalls STANDARD DICTIONARY been so highly honored in all countries.?

Did the Queen of England order it for the royal library at Windsor?

Did the President of France present a Sevres vase to the publishers?

Did the Sultan of Turkey confer a decoration in honor of the Standard Dictionary? Have nearly all the great rulers of the World procured the Standard Dictionary? Have many experts of the United States Government declared it their favorite authority?

Have professors of all the great Universities and Colleges proclaimed its superiority? Have the press and public of the whole English-speaking world joined in giving highest praise to the Funk & Wagnalls Standard Dictionary?

Why is the sale of the Funk & Wagnalls Standard Dictionary rapidly approaching a half million copies?

WHY IS IT EVERYWHERE CONCEDED THAT THE

IS THE MOST COMPLETE, MOST RELIABLE, MOST AUTHORITATIVE, MOST CONVENIENT DICTIONARY OF THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE IN EXISTENCE?

FINALLY WHY SHOULD YOU HAVE A COPY IN YOUR HOME, YOUR OFFICE, YOUR STUDY?

BECAUSE It contains nearly 100,000 more words than any other Dictionary of the English language—nearly 200,000 more than any single-volume dictionary.

THE SUN, New York, says: "As regards its vocabulary, this dictionary far surpasses all of its rivals." THE ATHENÆUM, London, says: "Its vocabulary is the most encyclopedic ever compiled."

BECAUSE It is the best guide to the correct use of words in English speech and writing; giving tens of thousands of nice discriminations in the meanings of words; explaining and illustrating the use of prepositions; correcting faults in pronunciation and diction, and presenting accurately and intelligibly the standard of English speech as used in the most refined circles.

EXAMPLES OF CORRECT AND INCORRECT USES OF WORDS.

enables any one to find thousands of words and definitions in the Arts, Trades, Sciences, etc., that otherwise could not be located except by one already familiar with them.

THE NEW YORK TRIBUNE says: "An extremely interesting feature of the dictionary is the table under notable words." THE GRAPHIC, London, says: "If the reader requires a word, and cannot recall b, he has but to turn to the branch to which it belongs, and the chances are he will find a list of the principal terms used in the trade or business." BECAUSE The many full-page colored plates, and the thousands of smaller illustrations are marvels of exquisite art work and definitive value. The Atlas of the World, with 88 pages of the best colored maps, is a most practical and

THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS, London says: "The colored plates are truly masterplaces of lithographic art."

THE NEW YORK OPSERVER says: "So theroughly have disputed spellings and pronunciations been dealt with that we have a consensus of the best judgment of the English-speaking world."

BECAUSE The proper use of capitals has been indicated, and the compounding of words has been, for the first time, reduced to a scientific system.

THE ATHENAUM, London, says: "The treatment of compounds is systematic and satisfactory."

BECAUSE There are innumerable other exclusive merits and practical conveniences which distinguish The Standard Dictionary Latest Edition, and places it far ahead of all others as THE dictionary for all people.

THE NEW YORK HERALD says: "It is admirable from every point of view... It is the most satisfactory and most complete dictionary yet printed."
THE ST. JAMES BUDGET, London, says: "The excellencies of this book are so bewildering that whatever might be said of them there would be as much remaining to be said. To say that it is perfect in form and scope is not extravagance of praise, and to say that it is the most valuable dictionary of the English language is but to repeat

U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C.—C. M. Robinson, Foreman, Proof Division: "We have in constant use in our room all the modern dictionaries, but the most thoroughly thumb-worn of all is the STANDARD. It is the most accurate, consistent, and complete. . . . It is 'up to date.' Hundreds of useful words and hell's are found in the STANDARD which can be found in no other publication of the kind."

Fleid-Marshal Lord Roberts writes: "I had no conception that the Funk & Wagnalis STANDARD DICTIONARY was so unique a work. The more I look into it, the more my admiration becomes for the amount of research, the power of arrangement, and the careful attention to details displayed in this remarkable compilation. Its comprehensiven as is really marvellous, and cannot fail to satisfy the most exacting enquirer."

Cardinal Vaughan, Archbishop of Westminster, Nov. 10, 1899; "Well may this [the latest edition] be called the admiration of literary England and the pride of literary America."

Field-Marshal Lord Wolseley, Commander-in-Chief of the British Army, writes: "It is by far the best and most comprehen-sive work of its kind."

Mark Twain quaintly writes of the Edition for 1900: "In my experience I have found that one can do without principles but not without the Funk & Wagnalle STANDARD DICTIONARY."

The Saturday Review, London: "In substantial merit we think the STANDARD DICTIONARY decidedly preferable to the much-The Standard, London: "Comparisons may be odlous, but when a work of reference is concerned they are inevitable. The STANDARD DICTIONARY, in its wealth of vocabulary, leaves even the Century far behind: and not only in comprehensiveness, but in exactitude of definition its merits are unquestionable." The Journal of Education, Boston : "In thoroughness, completeness, accuracy, typography, style, and illustration, it challenges criticism and commands admiration. It will make the world its debtor, and all who write must praise it evermore."

New York Observer: " . . . It must be conceded a place before undreamed of and till now unfilled."

The Independent, New York: "It is a noble example in which the modern tendency to popularize knowledge has risen to the highest level yet reached."

Oxford University, Professor A. A. Sayce, the eminent philolo-"The STANDARD DICTIONARY is truly magnificent and worthy of the great continent which has produced it. It is more than complete. It is certain to supersede all other existing dictionaries of the English language." A. G. Wilkinson, Ph.D., a principal examiner in the U. S.

Patent Office since 1860, formerly Professor of Languages University of Mesouri, says: "The high outhority of the STANDARD DICTIONARY is one of its most important features. Being several pears later than any other similar publication, and more distinctively the work of specialists in all departments of the language, its superiority in this respect is unquestioned. I should give it the preference on all disputed points. . . It is the most perfect dictionary ever made in any language, and I have them and consult them in six different languages almost daily."
